

RSI brings sports betting to Hall of Fame

 intergameonline.com/igaming/news/rsi-brings-sports-betting-to-hall-of-fame

December 28, 2021

by Phil Clegg

Rush Street Interactive, the US online sports betting and casino company, has entered into a sports betting operations partnership with Hall of Fame Resort and Entertainment Company.

The latter is the only resort, entertainment and media company centred around professional American football.

Through this 10-year agreement RSI will operate a premier retail sportsbook at the Hall of Fame Village powered by Johnson Controls, a multi-use sports, entertainment and media destination surrounding the Pro Football Hall of Fame in Canton, Ohio.

The Pro Football Hall of Fame is an inspiring museum and attraction that pays tribute to the talents and triumphs of professional football and is home to the world's largest collection of professional football memorabilia.

The agreement also features an exciting sponsorship component, allowing RSI to leverage HOFV's signage, branding and certain media assets. Moreover, HOFV has access to Pro Football Hall of Famers and the legends of the game through its brand partnerships.

Colossus Bets announces new leadership

Colossus Bets, the global provider of sports jackpots and technology, has announced the upcoming departure of veteran C-level executives David O'Reilly and Eva Karagianni-Goel.

Affilka by SOFTSWISS wins SiGMA award

SOFTSWISS has announced that Affilka has been claimed as the Best Affiliate Tracking Software.

Spreadex is fined £1.36m by regulator

A £1.36m fine has been imposed on sports spread betting platform Spreadex for social responsibility and anti-money-laundering failings.